Founded in 1956, SALALM is the oldest area studies library organization based in the United States. National as well as international librarians, book vendors, scholars, students, and institutions compose the membership of our organization. Since very early on, SALALM members and scholars have been writing about and reporting on SALALM's activities. Most importantly, they have reflected on the significant contributions that SALALM has made to academic librarianship, addressing the national and international cooperative initiatives undertaken by our organization over time. This bibliography brings together a selected list of print sources that address key aspects of SALALM's institutional history and the lives of prominent founding members; the cooperative projects SALALM has formally and informally spearheaded and supported; and a set of reports—veritable crónicas—often describing in minute detail individual SALALM meetings. As a whole, the bibliography provides wide-ranging perspectives on the achievements of our organization during its sixty-year history.

For additional sources of information on SALALM, readers are encouraged to peruse two of the organization's long-standing publications: the conference papers of the annual meetings, published uninterruptedly since the foundational meeting in Chinsegut Hill in 1956, and the SALALM Newsletter (1973-2010). The Bibliographic Tools section at the end of this bibliography features the most important bibliographies and indexes especially compiled by SALALM members of the bibliographic output of the annual meetings. Cumulative as well as individual volume indexes exist for nearly the complete run of the SALALM Newsletter. Since these indexes have appeared as supplements or as part of individual newsletter volumes, they are not included in this bibliography.
